What are the risks and what can I gain?

The product does not include any capital protection in relation to reported risks, which means that a part or the total amount invested may be lost.

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this Mutual Fund compared to other products. It shows how much possible it is, that the Mutual Fund will lose money due to movements in the markets or due to credit risk. On a risk return scale from 1 to 7, we have ranked the Mutual Fund at 4, which is a 'medium' risk category.

This means that the value of the assets of the M/F and consequently the price of the share have medium risk for intense positive or negative fluctuations, reflecting changes in the prices mainly of the equities in which it invests. Other risks that are materially related to the Mutual Fund and are not adequately reflected by the Risk Indicator are:

Liquidity Risk: This derives from the difficulty in selling assets at a fair price, at the preferred time, due to the potential lack of buyers. This event may put at risk the ability of the mutual fund to liquidate its units after its investors' redemption requests.

Counterparty Risk: The risk associated with a counterparty's ability in a financial transaction to discharge its obligations such as payment, delivery and settlement.

Operational risk: Some markets are less organized compared to most international markets, and consequently liquidating assets and settling transactions on those markets could entail greater risks for the Investment Compartment.

Risk of Inflation: This has to do with a reduction in the Investment Compartment's performance at fixed prices because of a rise in the general consumer price index.

Interest rate risk: Changes in interest rates could impact on the price at which certain financial instruments are traded, such as bonds or derivatives.

Derivatives risk: Using derivatives, either to hedge risk or to effectively manage it, could substantially affect how the portfolio performs.
